This article explains how to discover popular, featured, or high-impact content on Big Think+ to help you get started or find inspiration.

If you're not sure where to begin or just want to see what others are learning, you can explore featured and trending content throughout the platform. These sections highlight lessons that are widely used, recommended by Big Think+, or aligned with your organization's suggestions.

Browse featured content on the homepage

When you log into Big Think+, the Home page includes carousels such as:

- Curations by [Your Organization]: Content specially curated by learning leaders in your organization.
- Recommended based on your interests or role: Curated by Big Think+ to showcase timely, high-impact lessons based on your shared content interests or role in your organization.
- Popular Lessons: Content with high engagement across organizations.
- Newest Expert Classes: Newly released content you may not have seen yet.

These are great options if you want quick, high-value lessons without needing to search.

Explore curated learning collections

You can also check out the Curations tab on the top right for themed content collections created by Big Think+ or your learning team. These are often built around leadership goals, business priorities, or skill areas.

Some curations may be recommended to you by your Learning Manager or shared via Slack or email. You can follow them to save for later.
